

<Junior high students need Cell phone or not>

Mr.Matsumoto: Many junior high school students have their own cell phones.

I don't think all of them need cell phones, but some of them need cell phone. Some students go to cram schools and study late into the night. And some students go to other schools and practice their club activities, and they have to get on a phone to their parents. In short only when they need cell phone, they should use it.

What do you think ?

Kerry: I think every student should have their own cell phones because cell phone is so useful and it's easy to contact their parents. The point is how to use cell phone.

Mr.Matsumoto: yes, how to use cell phone is the most important, but many students use cell phone as fun using emails. They enjoy exchanging emails with each other. Students use cell phone only when they contact their parents. So I don't think they need always to carry their cell phones. If students abuse Cell phones the telephone bill costs too much.

What about students in the U.S. ?

Kerry:(let us know the situation in the U.S.)

<School lunch or Cafeteria>

Mr.Matsumoto: I've heard about Cafeteria in the U.S. ? What's that?

Kerry: OK. Cafeteria in the U.S.(let us know the situation in the U.S.)

Mr. Matsumoto: I think school lunch is healthy and it tastes very good. Kerry, what do you think?

Kerry: I also think that school lunch is good, but I think we should eat in a cafeteria. If we eat in a cafeteria, first year students can eat with third year students.

Mr. Matsumoto: I disagree because cafeterias are big and noisy. In Japan, we listen to music and eat in small groups. And school lunch is so well-balanced, but in cafeteria they lean to take their favorite foods. What do you think?

Kerry: Okay, I guess you're right. Let's go eat!
